

Hearing Questionnaire

There is no required hearing questionnaire. However, if the examinee is found to have a new STS, the physician or certified hearing conservationist must take a brief otologic history. This history will include discussion of the employee's current use of hearing protection to include type and frequency of use. Additionally, examinees with complaints referable to ear should be asked appropriate follow-up questions.